‘Āina Haina Be Prepared for the Next One!

by Danny Tengan

If Hurricane Iselle did make it to Oahu, would you have been prepared?

The ‘Āina Haina Community Association is facilitating a Community Emergency Preparedness Planning Committee so that if there is a disaster in ‘Āina Haina, residents will be prepared.

The purpose of the Committee is to provide education and training to the community about the “All Hazard Approach” to disaster preparedness, mitigation, response, and recovery, and to reduce the impact of a disaster.

The aim is to empower the community by an internal assessment of capacity and by the effective management of available resources. This plan is geared towards community members assisting fellow community members until such time as local or state resources are allocated and dispatched.

In the absence of Government Emergency Services, the Community Emergency Team will lead the community response and act as a central point for information and communication for the community.

Other communities are in the process of planning and several communities have completed their plans: Ewa, Hauula, Kailua, and Manoa. (Link to community plans and groups: <http://www.honolulu.gov/demvolunteer/communitypreparedness.html>)

We are looking for volunteers to help in the planning process.

UPDATE ON UPPER HAO STREET DEVELOPMENT

AHCA continues to work with the Trust for Public Land (TPL), City Councilmember Stanley Chang, Wailupe Ohana, and the Livable Hawai'i Kai Hui to bring about a resolution to development on the 9.5-acre parcel at the end of Hao Street ("the Property").

Councilmember Chang was able to include $4 million in the latest City budget for the purchase of the Property. TPL has been working to ensure that the funds are released and that the land is purchased. Recall that in 1999, funds were appropriated by the City Council to purchase 95 acres of land. The City purchased 85 acres which now comprise the 'Āina Haina Nature Preserve. For some reason, we are told it was budgetary, funds to purchase the remaining 9.5 acres were not released by the administration. We want to be sure that history does not repeat itself.

In addition to the City's funds to purchase the Property, TPL has set a goal to raise $50,000 of private funds. All of the partner groups are joining together to help raise money to reach the $50,000 goal. We are also asking the 'Āina Haina community to help raise money and to donate. The fundraising project is being called the "Wailupe Community Forest."

History

Wailupe means "kite water" as it was one of the prescribed places to fly kites in ancient Hawai'i. Wailupe may also be translated as "the water of Lupe," a meaning derived from an ancient mo'olelo about the travels of Gods Kane and Kanaloa along the Wai'ālae coast to Wailupe. It was here that Kane struck the coral shelf and gathered fresh water to mix with 'awa brought from a sacred grove in nearby Kuli'ou'ou. Two mo'o (lizards) called Lupe guarded the grove from the overlooking Ko'olau ridge.

To this day, these mo'o and other 'aumakua (family or personal gods or ancestors taking on the forms of animals) are represented on the Property in pohaku ki'a'i (guardian stones). The property includes a wealth of cultural sites, such as ahu (altars), heiau (traditional places of Hawaiian worship), 'auwai (irrigation channels), pohaku lele (elevated stones), and numerous stone walls, platforms and enclosures.

The various rock structures throughout the property are indicative of its historic religious use closely tied to Kamehameha I's high priest Hewahewa.

Expanding the 'Āina Haina Nature Preserve

The utmost mauka portion of the Property is recognized critical habitat for the endangered O'ahu 'Elepaio – a species revered in Hawaiian culture as the 'aumakua of canoe builders. The State has fenced approximately 9 acres further up the valley to protect O'ahu 'Elepaio and assist in native habitat restoration. Community members are involved in State O'ahu 'Elepaio habitat restoration efforts, advocacy for protection of the Property, and culturally appropriate care of the ancient cultural sites. The Property provides the only access to the state designated Wailupe Valley hunting area and the community and broader public regularly use the Property to gain access to Wailupe Valley for hiking, gathering of traditional plants, recreation, worship, and bird-watching. Wailupe Stream, which runs through portions of the Property, is the only un-channelized stream in East Honolulu, and likely the only stream in East Honolulu that sustains endemic stream life including 'opae kala'ole (native shrimp variety), and 'o'opu (goby fish).

Purchasing the property will preserve public access to Wailupe Valley and will allow for public education and community involvement in caring for the forest.

About The Trust for Public Land

The Trust for Public Land conserves land for people. We believe that everyone should have the opportunity to connect with Hawai'i's special natural places, and that the land-and-people connection is central to health, culture, heritage, economic wellbeing, and quality of life.

In Hawai'i we seek to engage local residents in protecting significant community resources, including coastal lands, working lands that contribute to Hawai'i's self-sufficiency, and lands that perpetuate Hawaiian culture.

Since 1979, we have helped to conserve more than 42,000 acres on the islands of Hawai'i, O'ahu, Kaua'i, Maui, and Moloka'i.
